• Exercise Your Independence

Our July 4th celebration of our nation's political independence reminds us that the ultimate goal of our therapies is the independence of those we treat. I was committed to finding resources to promote independence when I first started Therapro 28 years ago. There was not much available at that time.

Our earliest publications, the Activities of Daily Living Manual, (how to make) Low Tech Assistive Devices: A Manual for the School Setting, Stepwise Cookbooks and Teaching Dressing Skills: Buttons, Bows and More were all written by therapists who solved the problem of no practical resource by creating their own. Most recent publications, Self-Care with Flair and I Can Work! were created from a similar need. What is more important for independence than self care and work skills?

Sometimes adaptive device can be introduced to help with independence. We offer devices for dressing, utensils, eating and drinking.

Assistive technology that enables communication is the third leg of independence. We offer a variety of communication tools that are powerful, portable, lightweight and very durable without sacrificing great sound quality.

Achieving independence can be challenging and complex, just like political independence!

Featured Products

Freedom Dinnerware

Sticks solidly to any smooth table or work surface. Virtually impossible to lift or move the plate or bowl so there's no chance of the plate or bowl moving or tipping up.

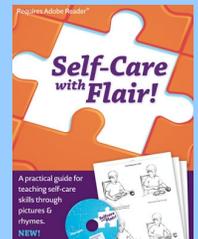

I Can DRESS Myself

A great vest for teaching dressing skills! This is a double-sided vest that allows you to serve the needs of a multitude of individuals. Vest fits most children ages 4-12 and is machine washable.

Self-Care with Flair

A practical guide to teaching self-care skills to children through pictures and rhymes. Also included are useful "tips" to make the learning experience more successful.

Talk Block

Recordable block reaches beyond simple listening and speaking practice (auditory) to also include visual reinforcement. Great augmentative communication tool.

• Therapies in the School Online!

We are thrilled to announce that our partner, Education Resources Inc., an approved continuing education provider, has launched new online courses for a wide range of school-based professionals. The first offerings are recorded live from its highly acclaimed and sold out annual Therapies in the School Conference and provide cutting edge information for physical therapists, occupational therapists, physical therapist assistants, occupational therapist assistants, speech language pathologists, SPED Directors, special educators, administrators, and teachers. You can now choose from six individual sessions, or purchase the complete package for 16.5 hours of professional development on demand.

● Summer Clearance

We have a lot of great items but we have too much of some. All offered at discounts, take a look at our Sale Bin.
