• Beyond Picky Eaters

Working with Feeding Problems in the School Setting was the title of Therapro's popular March 14th Saturday Morning Seminar by Lisa van Gorder, OTR/L, CEIS of Integrated Children's Therapies. You can read a review of the seminar at Filomena's Corner. You can view a small excerpt of her Power Point Presentation and watch video segments of her talk on our YouTube channel.

For therapists working with feeding difficulties, the last step in the process is eating. Sometimes getting a child to look at food, touch it and play with it (contrary to what Mother said) is necessary just to get started. Making it engaging and fun is essential. Because all of the sensory systems are involved in feeding, including proprioception and vestibular, children's feeding difficulties may be related to difficulties in processing the complex sensory information. For these children, preparing to eat should take place far from the dinner table with sensory activities that help them with sensory modulation and sensory discrimination.

Featured Products

Pediatric Feeding Disorders

Brings together 14 leading clinicians, the latest research, and interdisciplinary perspectives on pediatric feeding disorders!

Flexi-Cups

Made of flexible, dishwasher-safe, translucent plastic. These cups are cut to facilitate drinking without head extension. Offered in packages of 5.

Lollacup

Includes a flexible straw that is narrow, which helps control the flow of liquid, and is valve-free, for easy sipping. It even has a weighted end that keeps the straw anchored in the liquid, even when the cup is tipped.

• New Performance-Based Assessment Tool for Children, The Do-Eat

For children with developmental coordination disorder (DCD), attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) and both verbal and non-verbal learning disabilities, this assessment focuses on food preparation, drawing, writing and cutting. Evaluate areas of strength and difficulty in both ADL and iADL and help define customized therapeutic goals for intervention. To learn more, see the video here.

● April's Activity of the Month
